An indicative DMEO's quality standard is given below. The consultant may include more such standards to further enhance the report quality.

1.1. Executive Summary (ES)

The executive summary (ES) is meant to be read by a wider audience; thus, it must be written with extreme neatness and attention to detail. It should be written with clarity, coherence, and crispness. Findings of the report should be elaborated with key statistics and recommendations following from findings. The ES should offer more than just a synopsis of the chapters; it should also triangulate all the evidence obtained during the study from the primary survey and secondary data and policy implications to flow from such findings. The ES should be forthright in its observations, precise in its deductions, and proactive in its suggestions. ES should ideally be written in short, separate paragraphs that do not exceed five pages. All data/findings/recommendations cited from the main report need to be properly referenced using page numbers. The ES should only briefly touch upon the evaluation questions, issues, and problems. The ES needs to be sharp and centered on the conclusions and suggestions emerging from the evaluation study.

1.2. Professional Language and Referencing

The report should be written in a professional manner and in accordance with the standards of a typical double-blind, peer-reviewed publication. The report should be free from grammatical error, plagiarism, and spelling mistakes. Reports that have plagiarism content of more than 20 percent will not be accepted. Plagiarism will be ascertained through software/tools such as Turnitin etc. It must adhere to the suggested report structure and be appropriately referenced with necessary citations. Any data, diagrams, and graphs must be appropriately labeled and referenced.

1.3. Objective Findings and Recommendation

The report should be a succinct, stand-alone document with objective language that may be used to inform decision-making. The findings should be presented clearly, providing sufficient evidence, and systematically addressing all the evaluation objectives. The recommendations should be clearly formulated and logically derived from the findings of the report. It should be clearly articulated and prioritized based on their importance and potential impact for the improvement of the scheme. The conclusions drawn from primary and secondary research must be given equal weight. Recommendations that lead to an increase financial burden on the government (such as those on increasing budgetary allocation) should be avoided, unless there is sound evidence emerging from the analysis that an increase may be expedient. Focus should be on resource optimization/judicious usage of resources. The analysis, findings and recommendations should be centered around the Objectives and goals of the scheme.

1.4. Ethical Considerations and Data Protection

Ethical considerations, such as confidentiality and data protection, and data quality, must be upheld throughout the process.

2. Background of the Sector

Natural Resources (broadly, water, soil, forests, land, and aquatic habitats including wild flora and fauna) put together provide the necessary ecosystem services, through a complex chain of interdependencies to maintain overall ecological balance. This provides fundamental life support in terms of both consumptive and public-good services. For example, sustainability of water resources ensures water security for purposes ranging from basic life-support in the form of enabling better drinking water and sanitation facilities to driving economic activities through agriculture and irrigation. Similarly, ecological processes maintain soil productivity, nutrient recycling, the cleansing of air and water, and climatic cycles. Keeping these ecosystem services intact through human interventions and managing the way in which humans interact with their natural landscapes in an integrated and sustainable manner is what Natural Resource Management (NRM) entails.

In terms of the Government's intervention in this sector, the programmes are spread across several ministries, departments, and related bodies like the Department of Water Resources, River Development & Ganga Rejuvenation, Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change, Ministry of Agriculture and Farmers' Welfare, Department of Land Resources, Central Pollution Control Board, Central Ground Water Board, Central Water Commission, etc.

In view of the above, it is critical that a study with an integrated approach to assess the efficacy of the government interventions in this area is undertaken. However, given the context and current requirements, this study will mainly focus on the interventions across the Department of Water Resources, River Development & Ganga Rejuvenation and the Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change.

The terms of reference herein will discuss the objectives of the study separately for the Water Resources and the Environment & Forest. It will be expected from the Consultant that the report is also structured accordingly to reflect findings & provide recommendations for each sector separately in the form of two reports while also drawing in the synergies across them at the level of Natural Resources Management.

2.1. Water Resources sub-sector

NITI Aayog's India @ 75 Strategy⁸ stated that by 2022-23, India's water resources management strategy would facilitate water security to ensure adequate availability of water for life, agriculture, economic development, ecology, and environment. Additionally, Sustainable Development Goal (SDG) 6 proposes "Ensure availability and sustainable management of water and sanitation for all". Various sub-targets

⁸ https://www.niti.gov.in/sites/default/files/2019-01/Strategy_for_New_India_2.pdf

within SDG 6 underline the importance of ‘universal and equitable access to safe and affordable drinking water for all’, ‘improve water quality’, ‘protect and restore water-related ecosystems’, etc.⁹ Further, the sub-target under SDG 11 highlights the reduction in the number of deaths and the number of affected people and decreases the economic losses relative to GDP caused by disasters.¹⁰

A recent study conducted by Central Water Commission titled “Reassessment of Water Availability in India using Space Inputs, 2019”, found that the average annual per capita water availability in India for year 2021 and 2031 is 1,486 cubic meter and 1,367 cubic meters¹¹ respectively.¹²

Empirical evidence suggests that assured or protective irrigation encourages farmers to invest more in farming, adopt improved technology, and modern inputs, that will lead to productivity enhancement and increased farm income. The provision of timely and sufficient irrigation on farms enhances crop productivity and facilitates the cultivation of multiple crops leading to a substantial increase in agriculture production.

Pradhan Mantri Krishi Sinchayee Yojana (PMKSY) was launched during the year 2015-16 to enhance physical access of water on farms and expand cultivable areas under assured irrigation, improve on-farm water use efficiency, introduce sustainable water conservation practices, etc. It is an umbrella scheme, consisting of four major components Accelerated Irrigation Benefits Programme (AIBP), Har Khet Ko Pani (HKKP), Command Area Development & Water Management (CAD&WM), Special Package for Irrigation Projects to address agrarian distress in districts of Vidarbha and Marathwada and other chronically drought-prone areas of rest of Maharashtra, Irrigation census and Watershed Development component (WDC).

The National River Conservation Plan (NRCP) is aimed at supplementing the efforts of the States/UTs in the conservation of rivers, excluding Ganga and its tributaries. The objective of NRCP is to improve the water quality of rivers to the prescribed standards by reducing pollution load entering the rivers through the implementation of pollution abatement works in various towns mainly along identified polluted stretches of rivers in the country.

Flood Management and Border Area Programme (FMBAP) was launched to enable the State Governments to provide a reasonable degree of protection against floods/erosion in flood/erosion prone areas by adopting structural measures including anti-sea erosion works such as construction of embankment, spurs, bank revetment, RCC porcupines etc. in critical reaches

¹¹ The average availability of water in India in the years 2021 and 2031 would be approximately 19.98 and 19.99 lakh cubic meters respectively

Besides these schemes , a new scheme namely the Interlinking of rivers was launched in 2021, to meet the expenditure for various activities of Inter Linking of Rivers. An indicative list of all the CSS to be considered for this evaluation study, along with their outlays is given in Annexure I.

2.2. Environment & Forest sub-sector

M/o Environment, Forest and Climate change has an Umbrella Centrally Sponsored Scheme (CSS) “Environment, Forestry & Wildlife” with a budget of ₹ 713.50 crore. It covers 3 schemes namely: National Mission for a Green India, Conservation of Natural Resources & Ecosystems, and Integrated Development of Wildlife Habitats. The schemes/sub-schemes broadly cover management of protected areas/wildlife habitats in the country with the objective of conservation of flora and fauna, afforestation and forest fire prevention, Conservation of Biosphere Reserves, Aquatic Eco-systems, etc.

The scheme National Mission for Green India aims at improving the quality of forest and increase in forest cover besides cross-sectoral activities on a landscape basis. It includes the National Afforestation Programme and Forest Fire Prevention and Management as sub-schemes. The National Afforestation Programme aims at rehabilitation of degraded forests and other areas by institutionalizing decentralized/participatory forest management and supplementing livelihood improvement processes. Forest Fire Prevention and Management Scheme aims to provide financial assistance to States for their integrated forest fire prevention, preparedness, suppression, restoration and management efforts. The funds are used for creation and maintenance of fire lines, construction of water conservation structures, procurement of firefighting equipment, awareness creation, and incentivizing villages/communities for protection against forest fire, etc. as per the scheme guidelines.

The scheme Conservation of Natural Resources and Ecosystems encompasses two sub-schemes. The first sub-scheme, Conservation of Aquatic Ecosystems envisages conservation of lakes and other wetlands in the country. In order to have better synergy and to avoid overlap, two earlier schemes of National Wetlands Conservation Plan (NWCP) & National Lake Conservation Plan (NLCP) have been merged into a centrally sponsored scheme namely ‘National Plan for Conservation of Aquatic Eco-systems’ (NPCA). The second scheme, Biodiversity conservation was initiated in 1986 for in-situ conservation of representative ecosystems of major biogeographic zones of the country that are globally important, under UNESCO’s Man and Biosphere Programme.

The scheme Integrated development of wildlife habitats comprises 2 sub-schemes. The first sub-scheme is Project Tiger and Elephant. Project Tiger was initially launched on 1st April 1973 for in- situ conservation of wild tigers in designated tiger reserves. In 2005, the National Tiger Conservation Authority (NTCA) was set up to provide funding and technical support to the tiger reserves under the Project. Project Elephant was launched by the Government of India in the year 1992 as a Centrally Sponsored Scheme where financial and technical support is being provided to the elephant range states of India for the protection of elephants. The two Projects were merged into ‘Project Tiger and Elephant’ in 2023¹⁵. Further, Integrated Development of Wildlife Habitats provides funding assistance to States for support to Protected Areas other than tiger reserves, recovery programme of critically endangered species, and protection of wildlife outside Protected Areas including mitigation of human-wildlife conflict.

The schemes in this sector broadly correspond to the Sustainable Development Goals of Life on Land (SDG 15) and Life below Water (SDG 14), while also contributing to Climate Action (SDG 13), by preserving forested land as carbon sinks, and building resilience among forest communities. An indicative list of all the CSS to be considered for this evaluation study, along with their outlays is given in Annexure I.

In view of the above, a more comprehensive study on the Water Resources, Environment & Forest area sector is required to be commissioned to provide specific inputs for programme harmonization and identify structural gaps in the sector where further interventions need to be designed. In this way, the study will enable assessment of CSS for their rationalization and continuity beyond the 15th Finance Commission period.

3. Objectives of the Evaluation Study

3.1. Water Resources sub-sector

3.1.1. Sectoral Analysis

- a) To assess the status of the Water Resources sub-sector in the country

¹⁵ The CSS Project Tiger and Project Elephant have been combined into one CSS and renamed as ‘Project Tiger and Project Elephant’ but are still working independently.

in terms of availability and utilization of water resources for various end uses (agriculture & allied, industry, rural & urban household, etc., needs) along the principles of access, quality & adequacy, equity, and sustainability.¹⁶The Consultant will also assess the overall nature and responsiveness of water resources planning in the country based on a source-to-user full water cycle approach and suggest structural improvements therein.

- b) To provide a forward-looking assessment on the Water Security scenario of the country, including an increase in the availability of surface and ground water in rainfed/ degraded areas on four key dimensions - Household water availability/security, Economic water availability/security, Urban water availability/security and Environmental water security and provide overarching policy suggestions therein, including landscape management in degraded lands.¹⁷

- d) To assess the performance of each of the CSS pertaining to the Water Resources sector on the following indicative indicators¹⁸:
 - i. Agriculture Sector i.e. change in cropping pattern, area expansion including area brought under plantation/horticulture, production, the land and water productivity of major crops, cropping intensity, and diversity as well as cost-benefit ratio of Agriculture/Horticulture Crops, water use efficiency.
 - ii. Changes in area under irrigation by source and state
 - iii. Change in the groundwater table.

- b) To suggest revisions in the scheme/schemes' design for the effective implementation in future if modification is recommended.

3.1.5. Prioritization of Schemes

For prioritization of schemes for evaluation, two parameters are to be taken into consideration:

- a. Based on the duration of implementation, schemes can be classified into two categories:
 - i. Schemes introduced prior to the 15th Finance Commission cycle are more amenable to full scale evaluation.
 - ii. Schemes that were introduced during the 15th Finance Commission cycle, need time to be introduced, take off, and stabilize, and generally must face several initiation challenges. This means, most of the schemes introduced in the 15th Finance Commission cycle have had only a few years of full implementation, and therefore for these schemes a mid-term evaluation may be more relevant. Additionally, there are a few schemes that have been launched recently, which can be categorized as 'new' schemes, for which a limited assessment of their progress till date could be conducted by the Consultant.

The selected Consultant may confer with the concerned Ministry/Department the status of CSS and conduct a short analysis for those CSS that are proposed to be closed.

- b. Based on budget outlay: There are 3 large schemes with a budget outlay greater than ₹1,000 crores (average over last 5 years) with a share of around 69% of the total outlay for 9 CSS under Water sub-sector.

In addition, there are certain schemes which are empowered through specific acts of legislation. Assuming that these schemes will continue, evaluation of these legislatively backed schemes should focus on input and process insights for improving the outcomes and impact of these schemes.

3.2.Environment & Forest sub-sector

3.2.1. Sectoral analysis:

- a) To assess the status of the sectoral performance in terms of green cover augmentation, forest and wildlife habitat conservation, biodiversity improvement including endangered species conservation within and outside protected areas, and overall ecological balance restoration in the country for both on-land and aquatic ecosystems.

- b) To assess the performance of each of the CSS pertaining to the Environment & Forest sector on the following indicative indicators¹⁹:
 - i. Ecological restoration of existing natural habitats and migratory routes
 - ii. Mitigation of human-wildlife conflicts and community engagement
 - iii. Wildlife population stabilization and improvement
 - iv. Wildlife and Forest Protection
 - v. Preparedness against disasters e.g. forest fires and epidemics
 - vi. Eco-tourism and Sustainable Forest Management
 - vii. Climate Change adaptations
- c) To undertake a gap analysis in the broad sectoral outcomes where national priorities/SDGs require greater attention. For gap analysis, new schemes and initiatives announced in 2024-25 may also be considered.
- d) To study the overall regulatory policy framework for the Environment & Forest sub-sector and provide overarching policy suggestions.
- e) To examine the inter-sectoral convergence of schemes to other developmental programmes of the Central, State Governments, private sector initiatives, Corporate Social Responsibility efforts, international multilateral, bilateral aid, etc.

3.2.2. Scheme level analysis:

- a) To assess the implication of transferring funds directly to States with complete freedom to implement schemes rather than CSS to achieve the same outcome objectives as spelt out in respective CSS.
- b) To assess each CSS on the Relevance, Effectiveness, Efficiency, Sustainability, Impacts (REESI)+ Coherence + Equity.
- c) To assess coverage of each of the schemes in terms of eligible target beneficiaries, services, geographies etc. and analyse the reasons for non-coverage, if applicable.
- d) To assess each CSS on various cross-sectional themes as elaborated in the next section, as well as positive/negative externalities of programme implementation. Existing mechanisms such as environmental and social safeguards within the scheme design to mitigate these risks may be assessed as well.
- e) Most Significant Change (MSC): Identification of single MSC for each CSS under the package.
- f) Regional/State-level Variation: To assess whether the schemes' objectives have served the demands of various regions/states and the reasons for variations thereof. To document administrative reasons for variation in expenditure and outcomes of various

- g) To assess the operational readiness of all CSS Schemes in terms of institutional mechanisms at all levels, e.g. operating schemes in mission mode or through state departments, fund flow (adequacy, regularity & timeliness) & utilization through public expenditure tracking, planning process (top-down and bottom-up), policy guidelines and human resources allocated for the implementation of the schemes at central, state, district, block, and village, capacity building, mechanisms to identify and reward best practices within the scheme design as well as Monitoring & Evaluations systems

3.2.3. To identify and highlight scalable national and international best practices and home-grown innovations, if any, and create case studies for further dissemination.

3.2.4. Programme Harmonization:

- a) To provide recommendations based on the synthesis of sectoral and scheme-level analysis, on the need to continue the schemes in their existing form, modify, scale- up, scale-down, or close the schemes.
- b) To suggest revisions in the scheme/schemes design for effective implementation in the future if modification is recommended.

3.2.5. Prioritization of Schemes

The prioritization of schemes may be done based on the duration of implementation. A full-scale evaluation may be conducted for schemes introduced prior to the 15th Finance Commission cycle and a short analysis for those schemes that are proposed to be closed after consultation with the Ministry/Department.

In addition, there are certain schemes that are empowered through specific acts of legislation. Assuming that these schemes will continue, evaluation of these legislatively backed schemes should focus on input and process insights for improving the outcomes and impact of these schemes.

3.3. Cross-Sectional Thematic Analysis

The cross-sectional themes based on which each CSS will be assessed may include:

- i. Alignment with SDGs
- ii. Accountability and transparency
- iii. Direct/indirect employment generation
- iv. Gender mainstreaming
- v. Building resilience to climate change (including but not limited to developing disaster preparedness) & ensuring sustainability
- vi. Role of Tribal Sub-Plan (TSP) and Scheduled Caste Sub-Plan component of the scheme in mainstreaming of Tribal and Scheduled Caste population

- i. 2019-20 to 2024-25: Secondary research since inception at sectoral and scheme level
- ii. 2021-22 to 2023-24: Primary research

4.2.1. The meta-analysis will involve review of:

- a. Sectoral documents at National, State and International level
- b. Scheme documents; guidelines, MoUs and other associated documents
- c. Annual progress reports and implementation documents to assess the institutional arrangements.
- d. Analysis and performance in global and national indices

²⁰ Treaties and Agreements for Water Resources and Environment & Forest sub-sector can be referred to separately for cross-sectional thematic analysis.

²¹ Only for Water sub-sector

- k. Any other relevant documents

4.2.2. Preparation of evaluation matrix for sectoral and scheme analysis

The consultant will prepare the evaluation matrix addressing the evaluation objectives in consultation with DMEO. The matrix would map evaluation objectives with indicators, their data sources, collection methods/instruments and analysis approach to ensure credible and reliable findings for each objective. The matrix should assign appropriate weightage to the evaluation objectives to reflect their relative importance in the overall evaluation.

4.3. Field Study

The field study would include the following:

- a. Designing of the discussions guides for focus group discussions, interview guides for in-depth interviews and structured questionnaires/schedules for household surveys.
- b. Preparation of the analysis plan
- c. Pre-testing and finalizing the required tools in partnership with DMEO team.
- d. Establishment of a managerial structure for field operations
- e. Recruitment of investigators and training/capacity building of the field investigators
- f. Putting in place appropriate IT hardware and application software for data collection and management
- g. Collecting and compiling the quality data from selected areas
- h. High-quality data management and adherence to quality assurance mechanisms as per agreed protocols, plans, and schedules
- i. Collation and data cleaning
- j. Running data analysis and submitting cross-tabulations/summarizations
- k. Preparation of draft evaluation report and conducting stakeholder consultations
- l. Submission of final evaluation report and dissemination of the key findings
- m. Incorporating concurrent feedback into the workflow

During meta-analysis and field study, inputs from the concerned ministry/department may be incorporated for fine-tuning the methodology, preparation of the analysis plan, listing of secondary data sources, investigator training, and tool/questionnaire design.

5. Primary Data Collection Methodology

- 5.1. A qualitative and quantitative study backed with extensive meta-analysis will be conducted to provide a sectoral assessment. The study will consist of two main components:

- i. Key Informant Interviews & Focus Group Discussions - Herein, it is proposed that key informant interviews be held with officials from central ministries/departments, state-level implementing bodies, district, and block level administration. Other stakeholders supporting implementation or indirectly involved in enabling the scheme's success, as well as opinion makers at the village level should also be interviewed. National level key informants should also include experts from recognized national level think tanks, institutions, and prominent non-profit organizations.

Additionally, focus group discussions will be conducted mostly at block and village level with diverse groups involving implementing stakeholders, opinion makers as well as selected beneficiaries.

- ii. Household Surveys²²- A selected sample of household surveys shall be conducted to assess the beneficiary-level perspective of the programmes. Since various CSS have different target groups, it is to be ensured that the sample & geography selection for Key Informant Interviews/household surveys factors in representation from each of the respective target groups/geographies.
- iii. A mixed approach of Quantitative and Qualitative Analysis may be adopted. Quantitative Analysis may include secondary data analysis. Also, the analysis and findings from secondary data should be triangulated with household-level data.
- iv. Additionally, the discussion guides/questionnaires for key informant interviews and household surveys should include the relevant data points pertaining to the evaluation of the schemes and the sector.

5.2. Sampling

The sample design for a household survey must be stratified in such a way that the sample selected is spread over geographic sub-areas and population sub-groups properly. The size of the sample must take account of competing needs so that costs and precision are optimally balanced. Given all India nature of the CSS implementation, the sampling methodology will involve multi-stage, stratified and clustered features. In view of the sector-level evaluation, the household surveys will be 'general-purpose' in scope, covering multiple topics of interest to the government. The sample plan must make use of clusters of households to keep costs to a manageable level but at the same time it must avoid being overly clustered. Keeping in view the time frame and other factors, a non-probability judgmental and/or purposive sampling will be followed. The sample size can be based on a comparatively small proportion of the target population focused on several subjects. The survey managers may decide to base the sample size on being able to measure, reliably, a characteristic held by a certain percent of the population dependent upon budget considerations.

An indicative sampling framework and minimum sample sizes for costing purposes is as follows:

²² Individual beneficiaries wherever applicable

Entire country can be divided into 6 geographical zones i.e. (i) North & Central, (ii) South, (iii) East, (iv) West, (v) North-East and (vi) Hilly.

Table 1: Zone-wise list of States/UTs

Sr No.	Zone	States / UTs
1	North & Central	Chandigarh, Chhattisgarh, Delhi, Haryana, Madhya Pradesh, Punjab, Uttar Pradesh
2	South	Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka, Kerala, Lakshadweep, Puducherry, Tamil Nadu, Telangana
3	East	Andaman & Nicobar Islands, Bihar, Jharkhand, Orissa, West Bengal
4	West	Dadra & Nagar Haveli, Daman & Diu, Goa, Gujarat, Maharashtra, Rajasthan
5	North-East	Assam, Arunachal Pradesh, Manipur, Meghalaya, Mizoram, Nagaland, Sikkim, Tripura
6	Hilly	Jammu & Kashmir, Himachal Pradesh, Uttarakhand

A minimum of 11 States and 1 Union Territory are to be selected, of which each zone must be represented by at least one State. The State/UT selection criteria is to be proposed by the Consultant as a part of the Methodology and Work Plan in Appendix I Form 7.

Subsequently, in the case of Water Resources sub-sector, within each selected state, all the districts will be classified into 3-4 strata based on key sectoral performance/index and one district can be selected from each strata; thereby taking the total number of districts selected to a minimum of around 36-48 districts. In a similar way, 3-4 villages will be selected in each district using stratified sampling. Selection of a state, district or village in each strata can be based on either systematic random or probability proportional to size sample selection technique. Within each village, about 10 households will be selected which will cover eligible beneficiaries of one or more CSS covered in the sub-sector.

Similarly, in the case of Environment & Forest sub-sector, within each selected state, all the administrative units²³ can be classified into 3-4 strata based on project interventions/species and broad sectoral performance/index and one administrative unit can be selected from each strata; thereby taking the total number of administrative units selected to a minimum of around 24. Similarly, 2-3 villages will be selected in and around each administrative units i.e. both core and buffer zone villages using stratified sampling. Selection of a state, administrative or village in each strata can be based on either systematic random or probability proportional to size sample selection technique. Within each village, about 10 households will be selected which will cover eligible beneficiaries of one or more CSS covered in the sub-sector. In the case of UTs, a minimum of 1 administrative unit with 3-4 villages should be selected and a minimum of 10 households from each village should be covered.

It is important to note that these numbers are indicative, and it is proposed that the Consultant may suggest the methodology best suited to meet the objectives of the evaluation. However, for the Water Resources sub-sector study, a minimum of about 240 key informant interviews, about 126 focus group discussions and about 1,470 household interviews should be conducted as a part of the field study.

Similarly, for Environment & Forest sub-sector study, a minimum of about 88 key informant interviews, about 126 focus group discussions and about 1,050 household interviews should be conducted during the field study.

It should be ensured that Left Wing Extremism-affected (LWE) areas, aspirational districts, and island areas are not inadvertently left out, if relevant. This must be suitably included.

5.3. Mechanisms to ensure Data Quality

A multi-pronged robust process for quality control needs to be followed during data collection. The following aspects need to be considered:

Training and Screening Mechanism:

The field investigators to be engaged for conducting the survey & key informant interviews should have at least 3 years of experience in conducting similar surveys/interviews. 2-step training (classroom and then on-the-field training) should be conducted by the consultant for all field investigators. The consultant should put in place adequate screening mechanisms, so that only those surveyors who attain a certain level of understanding of the questionnaire would be deployed for the field survey.

Pilot for Survey:

It is recommended that pilots should be conducted on at least 2% of the sample size for survey to fine tune the inquiry tools. Similarly, pilots must be conducted for an adequate number of Key Informant Interviews /FGDs to fine tune the inquiry tools. A brief on the learnings from such a pilot exercise and subsequent improvements in the tools/questionnaires should also be shared with DMEO.

²³ Administrative unit includes Forest Division, Tiger Reserve, Elephant Reserve, Biosphere Reserve, National Park, Sanctuary, etc. (whichever is applicable) for the schemes of MoEFCC

Adequate deployment of manpower:

The consultant should ensure that an adequate number of surveyors are deployed as a team for smooth collection of data in a particular district/block/village.

Data Validation:

100% data collected should be validated using a validation checklist. Missing data points should be collected. Data must also be collected in an ethical manner, i.e, in consideration of the respondents' privacy.

Data Verification:

Schedule 3: Guidance Note on Conflict of Interest

(See Clause 2.3.3)

1. This Note further explains and illustrates the provisions of Clause 2.3 of the RFP and shall be read together therewith in dealing with specific cases.
2. Consultants should be deemed to be in a conflict of interest situation if it can be reasonably concluded that their position in a business or their personal interest could improperly influence their judgment in the exercise of their duties. The process for selection of consultants should avoid both actual and perceived conflict of interest.
3. Conflict of interest may arise between the Authority and a consultant or between consultants and present or future contractors. Some of the situations that would involve conflict of interest are identified below:
 - (a) Authority and consultants:
 - (i) Potential consultant should not be privy to information from the Authority which is not available to others;
 - (ii) Potential consultant should not have defined the project when earlier working for the Authority;
 - (iii) Potential consultant should not have recently worked for the Authority overseeing the project.
 - (b) Consultants and contractors:
 - (i) No consultant should have an ownership interest or a continuing business interest or an on-going relationship with a potential contractor save and except relationships restricted to project-specific and short-term assignments; or
 - (ii) no consultant should be involved in owning or operating entities resulting from the project; or
 - (iii) no consultant should bid for works arising from the project.

The participation of companies that may be involved as investors or consumers and officials of the Authority who have current or recent connections to the companies involved, therefore, needs to be avoided.
4. The normal way to identify conflicts of interest is through self-declaration by consultants. Where a conflict exists, which has not been declared, competing companies are likely to bring this to the notice of the Authority. All conflicts must be declared as and when the consultants become aware of them. The principle of Uberrimae Fidei will be applicable to the voluntary disclosure of the applicant regarding conflict of interest which has to ensure the highest standard of good faith during the disclosure of all material facts that could influence the decision of the other party.
5. Another approach towards avoiding a conflict of interest is through the use of “Chinese walls” to avoid the flow of commercially sensitive information from one part of the consultant’s company to another. This could help overcome the problem of availability of limited numbers of experts for the project. However, in reality effective operation of “Chinese walls” may be a difficult proposition. As a general rule, larger companies will be more capable of adopting Chinese walls approach than smaller companies. Although, “Chinese walls” have been relatively common for many years, they are an increasingly discredited means of avoiding conflicts of interest and should be considered with caution. As a rule, “Chinese walls” should be considered as unacceptable and may be accepted only in exceptional cases upon full disclosure by a consultant coupled with provision of safeguards to the satisfaction of the Authority.

6. Another way to avoid conflicts of interest is through the appropriate grouping of tasks. For example, conflicts may arise if consultants drawing up the terms of reference or the proposed documentation are also eligible for the consequent assignment or project.
7. Another form of conflict of interest called “scope–creep” arises when consultants advocate either an unnecessary broadening of the terms of reference or make recommendations which are not in the best interests of the Authority but which will generate further work for the consultants. Some forms of contractual arrangements are more likely to lead to scope-creep. For example, lump-sum contracts provide fewer incentives for this, while time and material contracts provide built-in incentives for consultants to extend the length of their assignment.
8. Every project contains potential conflicts of interest. Consultants should not only avoid any conflict of interest but should also report any present/ potential conflict of interest to the Authority at the earliest. Officials of the Authority involved in development of a project shall be responsible for identifying and resolving any conflicts of interest. It should be ensured that safeguards are in place to preserve fair and open competition and measures should be taken to eliminate any conflict of interest arising at any stage in the process.
9. Without limiting the generality of the above and Section 2.3, an Applicant shall be deemed to have a Conflict of Interest affecting the Selection Process, if:

(a) Conflicting Associations:

- directly or indirectly controls, is controlled by or is under common control with another Applicant; or
- receives or has received any direct or indirect subsidy/ financial stake from another Applicant; or
- has the same correspondence address or same legal representative/ agent as another applicant for purposes of this proposal; or
- has a relationship with another applicant, directly or through common third parties, that puts it in a position to have access to information about or influence the Proposal of another applicant or influence the decisions of the Authority regarding this Procurement Process; or

(b) Unfair Competitive Advantage and Conflicting Activities: had (or any of its Affiliates) been engaged by the Authority to provide goods, works, or services for a project, shall be disqualified from providing consulting services resulting from or directly related to those goods, works, or services. Conversely, a firm (or any of its Affiliates) hired to provide consulting services for the preparation or implementation of a project shall be disqualified from subsequently providing goods or works or services resulting from or directly related to the consulting services for such preparation or implementation or

(c) Conflicting Assignments: would (including its Experts or any of its Affiliates) be or are providing consultancy services in another assignment for the same or another Authority that, by its nature, may conflict with this assignment.

(d) Commissions and Gratuities: The Applicant shall disclose any commissions or fees that may have been paid or are to be paid to agents, representatives, or commission agents concerning the selection process or execution and performance of the resulting Contract. The information disclosed must include the name and address of the agent, representative, or commission agent, the amount and currency, and the purpose of the commission or fee.; or

- (e) Conflicting Relationships: has close business/ family relationship with a staff of the Authority who are/ would be directly/ indirectly involved in any of the following activities:
- i. Preparation of the RFP document or ToR of the procurement process
 - ii. Evaluation of Proposals or Award of Contract, or
 - iii. Implementation/supervision of the resulting contract
- (f) For purposes of this RFP, Associate means, in relation to the Applicant, a person who controls, is controlled by, or is under the common control with such Applicant (the “Associate”).As used in this definition, the expression “control” means, with respect to a person which is a company or corporation, the ownership, directly or indirectly, of more than 50% (fifty per cent) of the voting shares of such person, and with respect to a person which is not a company or corporation, the power to direct the management and policies of such person by operation of law or by contract.
- (g) Conflict of interest, for the process of determination, shall include presence of conflict, potential or actual, during one year preceding the last date of bid submission and shall include the factual conspectus related to the personnel specifically indicated as the lead professional of the project team termed as Team Lead/Principal Investigator.
